Just You And I (Or Optimism Speaks)

So love begins, a path before me lies
A path so dimly lit yet carved so clear
In pain, a curtain drawn before my eyes.
In bitterness which oft gives birth to fear.

What light is this I see before me now?
That warms my very soul from deep within,
With brilliance like a shining star, but how
Can e'en the sun give glow to one so dim?

And yet my friend thy love comes piercing through
The endless night will soon give way to morn
And as the sunlight dissipates the dew
So shall the pain dissolve and I reborn
Shall like a dove be free at last to fly
We'll fly forever love just you and I.

© James Pinhorn 2011